*Decrease human suffering,
increase human potential.*

Daughters of Charity International Project Services (DC IPS) is pleased to announce the transition of the Executive Director position from Sister Mary Louise Stubbs to Sister Theresa Sullivan. Sister Mary Louise has served for over a decade with dedication and compassion in this role, guiding the organization through a period of growth and strengthening its mission to support the work of the sisters across the globe in the service of those living in poverty.

Sister Theresa Sullivan joins DC IPS from Macon, Georgia where she has been instrumental in fostering support for unhoused people and building strong partnerships within the community. Her leadership reflects a key value of the Daughters of Charity: walking hand-in-hand with those in need, with a deep respect for their dignity and working towards long-term sustainability.

Change and adaptability are inherent in the work Sisters dedicate their lives to providing to their communities. Both leaders exemplify the long-standing commitment held by Daughters of Charity to accompany and uplift people in their struggles knowing that no one can do this work alone. With this guidance, DC IPS will continue to support ministries in impoverished communities that address the critical needs present. Our goal remains to assist sisters as they build sustainable solutions that empower their communities to thrive and that improve their quality of life.

Show your appreciation for these Sisters and the critical work they remain committed to by donating today! We extend our heart felt gratitude to Sister Mary Louise for her years of service and leadership, and we look forward to Sister Theresa's vision and direction in the years ahead.
